Message from the Dean of Arts

In these last days of the term, the Dean and graduate about-to-be will have mixed feelings. The one tends to sentimentalize, remembering his own graduation in a world where, mirabile dictu, the fields are eternally green. At the same time he has paternal anxieties about the new graduates. The old man wants the best possible world for the young but knows he can do nothing about that. He is also anxious that the alumni remember the College well whatever its failures, and that they will be concerned in the years to come to strengthen it. The young graduates, on the other hand, will not likely entertain such notions. They may shed a few natural tears but the right sentiment for them is surely

"Tomorrow to fresh woods and pastures new".

R. Poisson
Dean of Arts

Message from the Dean of Theology

The element of the unknown in these rapidly changing times is both disturbing and challenging. There is little prospect of stability and permanence in a mobile society where change is constantly taking place. There is a sense in which you are to be forerunners and initiators of change. Those called to ministry in our day are entrusted with the responsibility of being "change-agents" in society. It is your task to initiate desirable change, to bring about a changed society based on changed lives and attitudes. You may find frustration in this task, for Utopia is always remote; there is no panacea for the complex problems of our modern world. The blue-prints of the future are still being drawn. But of this we can be sure—the Church has been given an unchanging message of God's concern for mankind in Jesus Christ. The message is unchanged, even though the method of communication and the ways of application may require continual adaptation.

We are called as servants of mankind to declare by word and deed the reality of God who has revealed Himself as Love Incarnate. May you find deep satisfaction in responding to the call to the ministry and give yourselves wholeheartedly to the high calling which claims you.

Geoffrey Parke-Taylor
Dean of Theology.

Message of the Principal

Your time at University has been one of revolution. The world of tomorrow cannot be the world of today. I do not refer to Computer Revolutions, Space Exploration, or any other results of technology or applied accepted values and structures of the past. These advances have been wonderful, they will continue to be rapid. I do refer to the radical disenchantment with the failure of our best to cope with the real problems of the human predicament. Food — Population — War — Poverty — Brotherhood of Man — these are our problems. Old images (religious or otherwise) are powerless, new must be given birth. We cannot rationally create them—they come to birth as we throw ourselves into the task at hand and give expression to the common goals and ideals of a true community of committed persons.

Therefore, my challenge and parting message to each of you can be put in the words of Martin Luther King, Jr.—a true martyr of our age:

“Light has come into the world, and every man must decide whether he will walk in the light of creative altruism or the darkness of destructive selfishness.
This is the judgment. Life’s most persistent and urgent question is, what are you doing for others.”

May God bless you in all you undertake. Huron welcomes you as her newest members of the Alumni of this College.

Yours sincerely

John Menden

Message From the Head Student

A Head Student's message is not his alone, rather it is the thoughts and comments of eighteen other individuals—your student council—who have partaken with me the responsibility of directing and governing our student body.

This year, while the Students' Council has been active in its service function and general round of activities as usual, it has not concentrated in any specific field or area of endeavor; rather it has been a year of "consolidation" and "patchwork". While floats and snow sculptures are, I suppose, a necessary part of council's services, the most important operation of council is in the sphere of its representative function.

Liberalization in dress regulations, extension of weekend open house, student representatives to the Academic Council, course evaluations and descriptions to incoming freshmen, female upperclassmen honour system, a revamped Orientation, these were some of the accomplishments of this year's council. However, the function of any students' council can succeed only insofar as that group holds the support and interest of its constituents. This council in particular has questioned its role as a service and representative body. The H.C.S.C. must be something more than solely an organization concerned with running dances and sponsoring athletics. It is no longer possible nor desired that the student body should just passively dole out $20.50 for council fees. In fact students must involve themselves constructively and critically. They too must become legislative participants, determining council's goals and priorities and sharing in the attempt to make these objectives realized.

Said Pericles: "We alone regard the man who takes no part in public affairs, not as one who minds his own business, but as good for nothing . . . In truth, our people have this point of superiority over other men: to be the most daring in action and yet, at the same time, most given to reflection upon the adventures which we mean to undertake."

To each of you, my best wishes for your personal success and fulfillment.

EDITORIAL

"Time waits for no one." How very true is this saying! Another Academic year is over. All of us have gained another year of memories. The Heritage has tried to capture a few of those wonderful moments in an attempt to reinforce those fading images. We hope you will all enjoy the replay we attempted to record for you. May you always remember the wonderful time we spent at Huron.

It is with grief that I wrote this Editorial in place of Bill Gow. My grief is not for myself, from having to put two yearbooks together one after the other, but for the community which has been cheated of its yearbook for almost half a year. It was our hope that you would still enjoy this late edition of the Heritage. To those who are leaving Huron may we wish you all success, and to those remaining at Huron, may our stay in Huron be an enjoyable one together.

Finally, as the Editor of the Heritage 70 and the substitute Editor of Heritage 69, I would like to express my sincere thanks to my entire staff who helped to put this edition together. I am deeply indebted to Jim Hartley, Trish Burn, Elpi Walcott, Jenny Walcott and Sandy Sims for their assistance in making this edition possible. I bow to you all.

EDITORIAL

Writing obituaries for dead journals is a task best left to the former editors of such publications, but as Dave Platt could not be reached on short notice to write one, the task has fallen to me.

I do not particularly relish the chore, because 1968-1969 was not a good term for the Times. The production staff did not fulfill their commitments, deadlines were missed, the H.C.S.C. became sharply critical, and many students were distinctly hostile to the new look of the paper.

At the hub of the commotion was incumbent editor Tim Shortreed, whose concept of the ideal Times involved making it a junior-sized Gazette. The idea was too novel to be satisfactorily digested by a large portion of the student body, and the paper developed internal difficulties as well.

Shortly before Christmas, Tim bowed to a variety of pressures and resigned. His place was taken by Dave Platt, who became the first Freshman editor in recent memory. For the rest of the term, Dave produced a paper that more or less compromised the Shortreed ideal and the Times of previous years.

The paper did have many good qualities, but they were overshadowed all year by personality conflicts. Steve Mara's sports column, for instance, will be remembered as one of the best we have ever seen. One element that was sadly lacking was the spirit of fun and frivolity that usually attends the production of each issue.

So concludes this gloomy exhumation. Let us now consign this literary corpse to the files, where it belongs.

REQUIEM FOR A FRIEND

A philosopher he was, a man of many words,
And thoughts, and dreams; often changing but always free.
He had respect, but not too much patience for this world:
And now we find that we loved him as he loved you and me.

Gibran's words soothe my brain, I read:
"For what is it to die but to stand naked in the wind
And melt into the sun? And what is it to cease breathing,
But to free the breath from its restless tides,
That it may rise and expand and seek God unencumbered?"

He sought God, but was weighed down with the burdens of life.
Now he can seek and find the Eternal Gates to which he is led.
A moment before he faced the world and all its strife,
Now any tear is for the living, not for the dead.

Kyrie Eleison . . .

Requiem Aeternam . . .

A black and white photograph of a snowy landscape. A dark, textured path or road leads from the foreground into the distance. The path is flanked by snow-covered ground. In the background, there are several trees, including some evergreens on the right and bare deciduous trees on the left. A large, light-colored building with a prominent tower or steeple is visible in the distance, centered behind the path. The sky is bright and overexposed. The overall scene is quiet and wintry.
